INVESTOR ALERT

It has come to our attention that Fidelity's name and logo is being used inappropriately on some websites and social media applications in China. We would like to remind investors that they need to be vigilant of fraudulent investment schemes that pretend they are acting on behalf of known and established institutions, such as Fidelity, in order to gain legitimacy. Fidelity has a robust system in place to defend our brand that involves rigorous monitoring of its use and swift involvement of the relevant authorities, however, investors do need to be alert to these schemes. If you have been a victim of fraud or are unsure about emails or websites being authentic, we encourage you to file a report or seek assistance from your local law enforcement office.
